NAV has approved your application for 80 per cent parental benefit

Name: FURHOLT RICHARD I OCHOA

National identity number: 04068528157

We have reconsidered your case, and you are entitled to parental benefit. We have therefore changed the decision you previously have received.

You will receive 461 kroner per day before taxes starting from 4 November 2019. This is 9,988 kroner on average per month. The last day you will receive parental benefit is 6 January 2020.

Your employer pays you wages while you are on leave. The remainder of the parental benefit will be paid by NAV within the 25th of each month. Check your payments at nav.no/utbetalinger.

The other parent is entitled to parental benefit. You will therefore not be granted the whole parental benefit period.

You do not have lone care for the children and will therefore not be granted the whole parental benefit period.

We have extended the parental benefit period by 5 weeks because you are adopting more than one child.

We have granted the following

- You are taking 50 per cent parental benefit from 2 January 2020 up to and including 6 January 2020. During this period, you will receive 0 kroner per day before tax.

The parental benefit amounts to the same as before. Check your payments at nav.no/utbetalinger.

There are 60 days left of your quota and 11 days left that you can both take. These days must be applied for by 27 March 2020.

We have denied the following

- You are not entitled to parental benefit from 4 November 2019 up to and including 6 December 2019, because the earliest you can receive parental benefit is from the day you assume care of the children.
- You cannot draw parental benefit from 10 December 2019 up to and including 23 December 2019, because the mother has not applied for or is not entitled to parental benefit.

- You cannot draw parental benefit from 24 December 2019 up to and including 24 December 2019, because the mother has not applied for or is not entitled to parental benefit.
- If the mother applies for parental benefit and, in addition, is working, studying or is in some other activity, you may be entitled to parental benefit. You can read more about this at nav.no/familie.
- You are not entitled to parental benefit from 2019-12-27 up to and including 2019-12-31, because you are not a member of the Norwegian National Insurance Scheme. You do not have the right to reside in Norway during this period.

We have changed your last day of parental benefit to 6 January 2020.

The parental benefit period starts three weeks before the estimated date of delivery. Since you gave birth before the estimated date of delivery, you lose 1 day of parental benefit.

The decision has been made in accordance with the National Insurance Act Sections 14-11 and 14-12.

Because you have chosen 80 per cent parental benefit, you will be paid less per month.

You must notify any changes

You must notify NAV immediately of any changes that might affect benefits you receive. See nav.no/rettogplikt for more detailed information.

You have the right to appeal
